Sunday afternoon Assistant Postmaster Thompson will take an invoice of the property, and when that work is of the property, and when that work is concluded, will assume charge of the working force. It is understood that nearly all the appointments to be made at this time have been determined upon, but the list ticles of incorporation under which the company will not be ready for the public before Monday. FREE FUEL GAS PROJECT

Agreement Under Which a Pipe-Line Is to Be Laid for Manufacturers' Benefit.

The prices are: 89c, 98c, $1.23. $1.39, Form and Classes of Subscriptions the Canvassing Committee Expects to Secure from the City's Moneyed Men and Real Estate Owners.

> The project to furnish free gas to manufacturers is moving along encouragingly, and the committee having the matter in charge is in receipt of inquiries daily from people who desire to transfer manufacturing industries here if the plan proposed can be carried. The latest is from the Central Glass Company, of Wheeling, W. Va., one the largest table-ware concerns the United States, and known to the trade from one end of the country to the other. The sub-committee on subscriptions will begin its work to-day, and a meeting of the land-owners along the line of the Belt railroad will be held at the Criminal Court room, in the courthouse, at 7:30 o'clock next Wednesday evening, to take into consideration the details of the scheme. The agreements necessary to carry out the plan were drafted by ex-Mayor Cavan yesterday. The first is the trust agreement under which it is proposed to operate the free-gas line, and reads as

Know all men by these present, that the certificate of incorporation of the Manufacturers' Natural-gas Company, of Indianapolis, Ind., is hereby amended, by the addition of the following provisions, to-wit:

1. The entire capital stock of this corporation shall be placed under the control of a board of five trustees, and their successors, which said board of trustees, shall have full, complete, exclusive and irrevocable power during the continuance of this incorporation, to hold said stock in trust and vote the same as an entirety as fully and completely as if they were the owners of said stock, to elect directors and to fill vacancies that may occur in said board of directors. A majority of said trustees shall cast the vote of such stock in all elections as a unit.

The five trustees above named shall be chosen by the stockholders in the first instance, each share of stock being entitled to one vote; and after the first election any vacancy that may occur in such board of trustees shall be filled by the survivors of said board, and any member of said board of trustees who shall remove from Marion county shall be considered to have vacated the place of trustee.

3. The primary object of the organization of this company is to supply natural gas free to manufacturers only in Indianapolis and in the vicinity of the same. The said trustees are authorized and directed to hold said stock in trust, without dividends to the subscribers thereof, as long as it may be necessary to use the whole proceeds and profits of said company in supplying such manufacturers with free gas for manufacturing purposes. Provided, however, that such gas shall be furnished free forever for manufacturing purposes only to be consumed in or upon the certain described lands the owner or owners of which, before the closing of the subscription to the capital stock, shall have taken stock in this company for the sole benefit of said specially described lands to an amount in money equal to 10 per cent. of the present cash value of said lands, or by conveying by general warranty deed a portion of said lands equal in quantity and value to one-tenth part of the whole tract of land, said moneys and said lands to be used by said company as a means to enable it to pipe and supply free gas as above recited; provided, further, that such gas shall not be furnished either free or at any price or terms for any purpose to be consumed in or upon any lots or lands the owner or owners of which shall not have subscription of stock to this company, or making donations thereto, the persons making such subscriptions or donations shall and do agree for themselves, their heirs and assigns that the powers of such board of trustees, as herein provided

The subscriptions to the capital stock of the company are of three classes. First come cash subscriptions conditioned on the raising of $150,000 and the supply of free gas as provided for in the articles of incorporation. Second, subscriptions of land in the proportion of one-tenth of the tract benefited, and upon the same conditions as above set forth. Third, subscriptions of cash for the benefit of particular tracts of land, such subscriptions to be equal to one-tenth of the land benefited. The following is the form of the cash subscription disconnected with land on the line of the improvement:

I hereby subscribe for — shares of the capital stock of the Manufacturers' Natural-gas C ompany, of Indianapolis, Ind., of the denomination of $10 per share, for which I agree to pay without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws, after the sum of $150,000 has been subscribed to the capital stock of the com-

The following shows the form of sub-scription intended for land-owners who propose to put in one-tenth of land owned by them along the line:

I hereby subscribe for — shares of the capital stock of the Manufacturers' Natural-gas Company of Indianapolis, Ind., of the denomination of $10 per share, for which I agree to deed by warranty to the board of trustees of the company the tract of land owned by me in Marion county, Indiana, and described as follows, to-

Deed to be made to the board of trustees after the sum of $150,000 has been subscribed to the capital stock of the company. This subscription is made upon condition that said company is to furnish natural gas free to manufacturers now located, or hereafter to be located, on said last above described tract of land, as provided for in the articles of incorporation of the Manufacturers' Natural-gas Company.

value of a land subscription it will be set-tled by appraisement, and the inability of land-owners to make cash subscriptions will be no bar to the enterprise.

NOBLES OF THE MYSTIC SHRINE.

Something About an Order That Has for Its Aims Truth, Justice and Mercy.

A peep into the reception-rooms of the Scottish Rite Temple last night would have disclosed little change in the personality of the men gathered there from those whose faces have been seen in attendance at the Scottish Rite convocation. There was one distinguishing mark, however. Instead of black caps with the triangle emblazoning the front, red Turkish fezzes, surmounted with a crescent and star, had taken their place. Sublime Knights of the Royal Secret had become Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. The order in this city is yet young in years, having been instituted in 1884, but in the far East it is almost as old as the hills. It is said to have been founded by the Mohammedan Kalif Alee, a son-in-law of the prophet Mohammed, at Mekkah, Arabia, in the year A. D. 656, as an inquisition, or vigilance committee to dispense justice and execute punishment upon criminals who escape their just deserts through tardiness of the courts, and also to promote religious toleration among cultured men of all nations. The original intention was to form a band of men of sterling worth, who would, without fear or favor, upon a valid accusation, try, judge and execute, if need be, any criminal within an hour, having taken precaution as to secrecy and se-curity. The "Nobles" perfected their or-ganization, and did such prompt and effi-cient work that they excited alarm and even consternation in the hearts of the evil-doers in all countries. The order is yet one of the most highly favored among the many secret societies which abound in oriental countries, and gathers around its shrines a select few of the best educated and cultured classes. Their ostensible object is to increase the faith and fidelity of all true believers in Allah. The secret and real purpose is only made known to those who have encircled the mystic shrine according to the regulations of the order. One of the most noted patrons of the order was the late Khediye of Egypt.

most noted patrons of the order was the late Khedive of Egypt.

The order in America does not advocate Mohammedanism as a sect, but tries to inculcate the same respect to Deity here as in Arabia and elsewhere. The ritual used is a translation from the original Arabic, found preserved in the archives of the order at Aleppo, Syria, whence it was brought in 1860 to London, England, by Rizk Allah Hassoon Effendee, who was the author of several important works in Arabic, one of which was a metrical version of the book of Job. His "History of Islam" offended the Turkish government, because of its humanitarian principles, and he was forced to leave his native country.

The work in use here was perfected under the supervision of Dr. Walter M. Fleming, thirty-third degree, sovereign grand inspector-general of the A. A. S. R., and past eminent commander of Columbian Commandery, K. T., of New York, who received his instructions from Rizk Allah Hassoon Effendee. The ritual is known in Arabic as "The Pillar of Society," which is an honorary title given to persons of very great distinction in the service of truth, justice and mercy. The jewel of the order is a crescent, formed of any substance. The most valued materials are the claws of the Royal Bengal tiger, united at their bases in a gold setting, which includes their tips, and bears on one side of the center the head of a sphinx, and on the other a pyramid, urn and star, with the date of the wearer's reception into the order, and an Arabic motto, reading in English, "Strength and Fury." Walter M. Fleming was the presiding officer of the first temple instituted in this country, and his title is, "The Shayk; or the Ancient."

There are now thirty-eight temples in

There are now thirty-eight temples in the United States and Canada, located at the principal cities. One of the most progressive is Murat Temple, of Indianapolis. It has nearly two hundred members, and is increasing this number about sixty a year. The chief officer of the Divan al Akarim is John T. Brush, grand potentate, scherif sultana. There are many minor positions—in fact they are so numerous that to pronounce the word "scherit" would bring half the members to their feet. The meeting last night was for the purpose of conferring the degrees on thirty-three members of the Scotish Rite, from all sections of the State. The work, of course, is secret, but it is said to be very impressive, although relieved at certain stages by humorous and perplexing incidents calculated to give zest to the exercises. It is not likely that any of the gentlemen present last night escaped paying their "dues" at the shrine of the scherif sultana. Some, perhaps, even went so far as to ride the camel through the burning sands of the desert. Owing to a slight delay in starting the pilgrims on their journey in the evening the caravan did not reach the banquetroom until a late hour, and it was still later when the social features were concluded. All together it was a red-letter night in the history of the shrine here, and the members separated, promising to meet again in due time.

A Detective with a Theory. The friends of Lloyd Nowland, Clements's victim, have put the case into the hands of detective Lloyd, and he claims to have found a clew by which Clements will be convicted of willful murder. Last night he had a warrant for his re-arrest on what he had a warrant for his re-arrest on what he termed a double charge, as the man is now held for murder, pure and simple, without any specification as to whether it was or was not willful. Clements's examination will begin to-day, and much interest is manifested on all sides as to what will be the outcome of his preliminary hearing. He still persists in his innocence of any intentional crime, and in the belief that he did his duty, he will answer not guilty to the charge that is made against him.

Whitney to Come Here. The disagreeable weather, yesterday, caused the game of ball between the Indianapolis nine and the O., I. & W. amateurs to be declared off, but this afternoon the City League and the professionals will play their second game. Aside from Denny's arrival, the interest in base-ball was confined, yesterday, to the news President Brush received from President Young, notifying him that the deal with Washington had been completed. It is certain, then, that Whitney will come here.

ANOTHER DEFECTIVE LAW.

Even the General Appropriation Act Is Looked Upon with Suspicion by Democrats.

It is barely possible that the late Legislature may have passed a few bills that will survive the test of constitutionality, but every few days a watery-eyed skulker is dragged out of a corner, and upon investigation is found to be as imbecile as the Democratic majority that made it. Here is another to add to the list: The Supreme Court decided, during the session of the late Legislature, that the old law with reference to county boards of equalization was unconstitutional by reason of the fact that it did not provide for notice to the taxpayers brought before the boards to be examined. After this decison there was a law prepared and submitted to the Legislature curing that defect. The bill was passed, and at the end of the principal section of the act there was added, "Provided, that the county officers shall purchase all of | mon. the books, blanks and stationery necessary for their offices at the expense of the county." The law before was that the county." The law before was that the county commissioners should contract for such stationery supplies and each county officer was to submit an estimate as to what he required. The new law was intended to allow officers to buy anything they desired anywhere. This important addition to the subject-matter was not mentioned in the title of the bill, and as supplying county officers with books and stationery is in no way connected with the subject treated of in the bill, this omission from the title probably renders the law unconstitutional and leaves the counties without any counand leaves the counties without any county board of equalization.

It was in connection with talk concerning so many defective acts that a gentleman said, yesterday, "I think the Democrats themselves are distrustful of all the laws their majority enacted. I happen to know of a little incident which occurred about the time the Legislature adjourned, to show that they cannot trust each other.
As you remember, neither the members nor the employes were able to cash their paywarrants, because there was no money in warrants, because there was no money in the State treasury. The ten or fifteen assistant clerks in the House concluded to ask John P. Frenzel, the banker, to take their warrants at par value. Mr. Frenzel was seen, and he said, of course, he would be glad to give them the money. In a few hours he notified the clerks that he could not each the warrants. They later some not eash the warrants. 'I have later some advice on the matter,' said he, 'and I am afraid the appropriation bill may not be all right. If a flaw should be found in it, I would be out, and I do not want to take the risk.'"

An Obstreperous Legatee.

Early yesterday morning Fred Birchall died suddenly, at his home, No. 87 Virginia avenue, and a few hours later the place was the scene of a lively dispute over Birchall's few personal effects. On his person was found a will, bequeathing all his household furniture to Cranford Keggeries, an old-time friend. It was witnessed by J. H. Dickey. Before any legal steps had Birchall's body was lying in the one room of the house, Keggeries began moving out his recently-acquired possessions, at best very scanty and comparatively without value. In the meantime the body was removed by the city undertaker, and soon afterward Keggeries appeared at the police station and demanded to know what right the undertaker had to enter, without his consent, the home that had become his and take away the body of his deceased benefactor, as he termed Birchall. Keggeries was taken in and slated on a charge of drunkenness, and on his person was found the will, according to the provisions of which he had assumed the right to defend his property. Both the legatee and will were locked up for safe keeping. been taken toprobate the will, and while Druggists Hold a Meeting. The local druggists held a meeting in the the City Council chamber yesterday afternoon, to make arrangements for the State Pharmaceutical Association to be held here in June. Formerly there has been a city branch of the association, but owing to a seeming lack of interest it was abandoned some time ago, and the meeting yesterday was intended simply to discuss the preliminary questions of entertainment and arrangements for the State convention. Nothing definite was decided upon.

Articles of Association. Articles of association were filed with the Secretary of State, yesterday, by the Garvin Park Building, Loan and Savings Association, of Evansville; capitol stock, $500,000; and the Peru & Detroit Railway Company, an organization formed for building a railroad from Peru to a point on the Wabash Western Railway, near Laketon, in Wabash county, a distance of twenty-five miles; capital stock, $100,000.
